

Sexual History

Instructions for Completing Part One

Part One deals strictly with sexual victims. Part 1 contains information about victims who are victims where you have physically or at a distance, for your sexual pleasure or with sexual motivation used a victim of any age. Hands-on victims also include anybody of any age that has touched you as a result of your manipulation of that person. A separate Victim sheet must be filled out for each victim you are reporting. If you have thirteen victims, then you will have 13 victim sheets.

1. Complete a Victim Sheet for each and every victim you have ever had. Use additional paper, include the number of each question prior to your complete answer. If you need additional space for each victim, add notebook or typing paper, do not write on the back of the forms.
2. When requested to report the sexual contact you had with each reported victim, list every individual sexual act you did with this victim you are reporting. If you had sexual intercourse, oral sex, fondling, use of vibrators, penetration with fruit or vegetables, list every separate act and be specific. Be certain to tell the story of what happened in order to be complete.
3. When requested to report how many times you offended each victim it is understood that you probably will not be able to give a specific number that is 100% accurate. An "honest estimate" is required. For example, you will easily know the difference between two or three times versus more than fifty. Simply give an honest estimate of how many times you had sexual contact with each victim. Tip: Minimization will usually result in the failure of your polygraph exam. Think in terms of a maximum amount possible.
4. Be very specific in explaining exactly how you were able to get the victim to remain silent. List the use of force, threats, promises, bribes, gifts, special treats, etc. If you groomed a victim tell exactly how you groomed them. If you used force of any kind, tell exactly what kind of force was used and how you used it.
5. What is a victim? A person may sexually offend a person and make that person a sexual victim in a number of different ways.
 - A. If you are under the age of eighteen (18) and you have deliberate sexual contact with a person three or more years younger than you, even by mutual consent, this person is legally a sexual victim. This section applies ONLY before you were eighteen (18) years old. If you had any kind of sexual contact including sexual exploration ("show me yours and I'll show you mine"), interactions, or any deliberate sexual contact where the other person was three years or more younger than you were, then they are a sexual victim. Offenders usually find victims in this category who are younger brothers and sisters, younger cousins, younger brothers and sisters of their friends, friends of the family, neighborhood kids, etc.
 - B. After you turn eighteen (18) the law says you cannot have any sort of sexual contact with anybody under the age of eighteen (18). So, if you had younger girlfriends after you turned eighteen, legally they are victims. Most commonly, offenders have sexual victims many years younger than them, but they also sometimes dated people under eighteen when they were eighteen through twenty. Remember, eighteen is the age that you turn into an adult and sexual contact with anybody under the age of eighteen becomes a sexual victim.

- C. Any use of force to accomplish a sexual act, not necessarily intercourse or oral sex, is clearly a sexual offense. Use of force does not necessarily mean beating someone or kicking them. It can be holding them down, shoving, threatening physical force, etc. If you have used even the slightest force then you must report the person to whom you did this as a sexual victim.
- D. If you had sexual contact with anybody who was so under the influence of either alcohol or drugs (or a combination of both) that they could not consent or refuse, then they are a sexual victim. If you have victims in this category you must report if you furnished them alcohol or drugs intentionally to get them drunk or drugged so you could take advantage of them sexually.
- E. If you had sexual contact with anybody who was intellectually incapable of consenting or refusing then they are a sexual victim. Normally, this includes those people who are considered retarded, slow functioning, disabled, deaf, blind, etc.
- F. If you “frottage” a person then you have another sexual victim. Frottage is basically rubbing yourself against another person for your own sexual pleasure. Usually this is done in crowds, and you “accidentally on purpose” bump or rub up against them, making it look like an accident. Also a number of people do this in crowded buses, trains, escalators, elevators, airports, etc.
- G. If you have ever exposed your genitals in public view and someone saw you then they are a victim. Public view means actually outside in the public or in a building or structure or car and you expose your genitals so someone might see you. In other words, if you are in a house and are standing in the window exposing to someone walking by, then this is in public view. If you are inside a vehicle and exposing yourself or masturbating where anybody might see you then you are in public view.
- H. If you were inside a residence or other building and exposed yourself to someone inside the building then they are a sexual victim.
- I. If you, in any manner, peeped through key holes, windows, doors, under doors, holes in a wall, around curtains, or in any other way to see someone dressing, undressing, having sex, etc., then they are a victim even if they do not know you did this. Commonly offenders will do this while people are dressing, having sex, using bathroom, taking a bath or shower, etc. Any act that is deliberate and intentional needs to be reported.
- J. Any time you have made any telephone calls where you hid your identity and said sexual things to the person you called, then you have made an obscene phone call. Include in this category, calls for sexual talk on 800 and 900 phone sex calls.
- K. Any time you deliberately talk in a sexual or vulgar manner in front of anybody for your own sexual pleasure then you have another sexual victim. This section includes computerized communication where you “chat” and talk dirty. Even though the person might be returning the “chat”, you have a victim because you do not know for certain that the person is of an appropriate age.
- L. If you molest anybody and others are watching, then those you are subjecting to watching you are also victims. This is commonly seen with younger siblings of the person being molested or younger siblings of the offender.

Part I

Victim Sheet

Your Name: _____ Date: _____

Part I of your sexual history refers to the number of victims you have molested or otherwise offended against. You must think back to anyone or any situation that involved a "lack of consent". Remember, this section applies to those sexual activities where you were the perpetrator, and a victim was involved. Each victim must be discussed separately. Answer these questions for the first victim and then start over on a new page for each additional victim.

1. Name of victim _____
2. Age of victim _____
3. Your age at time of the offense _____
4. How did you know this victim? (relative, neighbor, friend, etc.)

5. Specifically, and in DETAIL describe what sexual acts did you do with this victim.

Begin with the first time and describe everything that happened.

List every different sexual act you did with this victim, that you attempted to do with this victim, and any sexual acts you had the victim do to you. Use additional paper if necessary, and attach to this form.

6. How many different times did you victimize this person? If you cannot recall the exact number of times you offended with this victim, report an honest estimate of how many times and do not minimize.

7. Where did the offense take place? Name all of the different locations.

8. How did you get the victim to do what you wanted? Describe how you got the victim's cooperation. Sometimes victims cooperate because of fear, threats, status, etc. Be specific in answering this question. If you did not say anything, but you used some kind of force, bribe or trick, be sure to say what type it was.

9. How did you get the victim to remain silent? We need to know how you were able to keep the secret. Remember, sometimes victims don't tell because of things like size, age or your position in the family.

10. How did you get caught? Did the victim report you? Did you turn yourself in to some authority? Did a third person find out and report?

Sexual History - Part II

Describe ALL your sexual activities other than the involvement with your victims. Avoid minimizing this portion of your history. Your job is to report everything you've done sexually. Estimate higher than the highest number of times you believe you have done something, round your numbers up.
